

Relationships

The relationships gua represents love and all types of relationships – intimate, platonic, work etc. It can be used to attract, heal or improve a relationship. Objects in pairs are best placed in the relationship corner (eg. 2 candles, two roses); as well as any items that symbolise love. Remove items from this area that relate to emptiness, solitude, childhood and clutter.

Prominent single items in the relationship gua can maintain a person's single status.

Examine all relationship corners of the house, particularly the bedroom and ensure that there is a balance of yin and yang (shade – sun, warmth – coolness) The colour pink is associated with love and is therefore appropriate for this area. Red, white and earthy colours can also be used.

Governing element of this gua: _____
 What nourishes the governing element: _____
 What destroys the governing element: _____

The relationships gua is governed by _____ and therefore should contain an _____ element. Adding a (nourishing) _____ element as well, will strengthen the relationships area because _____ nourishes (governing element) _____.

If a (destructive) _____ element was placed instead of the (nourishing) _____, it would weaken the relationships area thereby creating obstacles & challenges.

Answers

Further suggestions:

To attract (& improve) an intimate relationship

- Add two rose quartz crystals to the relationships corner.
- Make sure your bed is accessible from both sides and has a bedside table on each side.
- If you're sleeping on a childhood bed, buy a bigger (adult) one.
- If you are recently single, rearrange the furniture in the bedroom to gain a new perspective, release stagnant/tense energy and encourage fresh, healthy energy flow.

2 Rose Quartz Spheres placed on top of a wedding album in the relationships gua to maintain a happy marriage.